

Kairos Kalender Tutorial

If it has a date associated with it, then it is on the Kairos Kalender. Here's how to find what you need:

The screenshot shows the Kairos Kalender interface. At the top, there is a header with the title "Kairos Kalender" and a button that says "Click to Register Your Weekend". Below the header, there is a navigation bar with "Today", navigation arrows, and the date "Friday, October 7". To the right of the date are icons for "Print", "Week", "Month", and "Agenda". The main content area is a list of events, each with a state abbreviation, location, and group name. The events are color-coded: blue for men's groups, red for women's groups, purple for prayer groups, and green for youth groups. The list includes events for Friday, Saturday, and Sunday, and ends with "Monday, October 10" and "Columbus Day".

There is a button to send us all the information we need to publish your weekend. Just click on:

Click to Register Your Weekend

To make it easier to find stuff on the calendar, look for the down arrow in the top right hand corner of the Kalender. You can use that button to select or deselect each of the calendar categories to display only the information you are looking for.

Speaking of categories, there are 7 calendars combined into the Kairos Kalender and the information categories are color coded to help you find what you are looking for.

Administrative - this will be information on meetings and conferences.

AKT Calendar - dates, locations and registration details for Advanced Kairos Training.

KI Men's Weekends - self-explanatory. Look in the heading for each weekend for AGAPE and/or PRAYERS and you will find additional details on where to send agape and the specific prayer requests for this weekend.

KI Women's Weekends - self-explanatory.

KO Weekends - self-explanatory.

KT Weekends - self-explanatory.

US Holidays - self-explanatory.

You can scroll down through dates to display dates in the future. You can always use the Today button to get back to the Kalendar items start today.

You can print the Kalendar and you can use the Week, Month and Agenda tabs to change the way the information is displayed.

Even though it is a new way of displaying the information, we hope that you find that a single place to find your date-driven information will be useful and easy to adapt to. Use the feedbacks form on the Home page of the MyKairos.org website to let us know what you think.
